School Enrollment is Up About 10 Percent

Glades area school enrollment the first month of the current school year totalled 4,477 or 433 more than the same month last year, Supt. of Public Instruction Howell Watkins announced this week.

The Citizens Committee for Better Schools was informed by the superintendent that the total enrollment in Palm Beach County public schools now stands at 27,824.

LAKE RISE 2 FT SINCE OCT. 1st

Water in Lake Okeechobee is expected to rise today and tomorrow to a respectable 13-foot level the Corps of Engineers office in Clewiston advised yesterday.

After taking readings around the lake yesterday morning, Engineers said the average depth was 11.8 feet, but the crest of flood-proportional rainfall in the upper Kissimmee River valley earlier in the week was expected to evidence itself in Lake Okeechobee beginning today.

With the waters from the Kissimmee, the lake's level should reach somewhere near the level enjoyed in October, 1955, when the average level was 13.4 feet, Engineers said.

Average rainfall at six check-points around the lake thus far this month has been 7.5 inches, raising the lake level considerably from the 10.8 feet as of Oct. 1. In October of '55, a rainfall of only 2.08 inches was registered.

There was a good bit of variation in the rainfall over the area Sunday, Monday and Tuesday of this week. Okeechobee City was the high with nine inches over the three-day span, Fort Mayaca had four inches, Moore Haven 3.8, Clewiston 2.7, Chosen 2.3, and Canal Point 2. (Official check points are not given by Engineers at Belle Glade and Pahokee.)

Waters were still flowing into Lake Okeechobee from surrounding canals via open flood-gates yesterday. Engineers said gates would be closed as soon as the inflow ceases, in order to prevent unnecessary loss of water in the lake.

FREAK STORM HITS CANAL POINT HOME

CANAL POINT — Little did Arnold Barad know when he heard rumblings overhead in the wee hours of Tuesday morning that he was in the midst of a minor tornado.

Examination later in the day, however, showed that part of the roof on the west side of his two-story building was gone with the wind.

Right now Mr. Barad is living with a large hole in his roof and with the hope that the repair man will arrive before the next rain.

Also attending the affair were Mrs. W. Matthews, Mrs. Hubert Tillery, Mrs. Richard Poston and Mrs. Vernie Boes.

Also attending the affair were Roy Vandegrift, Jr., and Mrs. Elsworth Keen of Pahokee, and Mrs. L. C. Livingston, Mrs. W. N. Neal and Mrs. J. E. Williams of Canal Point.

RE-ORGANIZE BG CHAMBER — BELLE GLADE — Ex-presidents will be special guests Tuesday night at a re-organizing meeting of the Belle Glade Chamber of Commerce at the County Club.

Ballots for the vote for new directors are due today, and they'll be counted tomorrow.

JCs Hire A Real 'Salt' As Dockmaster

PAHOKEE — The Jaycees and their official step-child, Pahokee Marine Corp., have done it — they've hired a salty mariner to serve as their first dockmaster at Pahokee Harbor.

And, from all available information on the new dockmaster, he's the type of fellow who will put Pahokee on the water-sports map if anybody can.

He's Capt. Laurence A. Wheeler, an outdoors sportsman who's been a commercial boatman, fisherman and guide in Florida waters for more than 25 years.

The good captain now lives in Pompano Beach with his wife, who is an ardent fisherman and who has prize-winning trophies to prove her proficiency. They'll move to Pahokee in another fortnight.

Capt. Wheeler got wind that the Pahokee Jaycees were in the market for an experienced man to take on the duties as dockmaster here. One glance at Pahokee Harbor was sufficient to kindle his excitement over the tremendous potential the site offers for water sports activities.

Immediately, he wanted the job. A native Georgian, Wheeler moved to Florida in 1930. He fished the waters offshore at Miami, first. In 1938 he headed for Tampa and tuna fishing. He guided lake and river fishing on the west coast until '39, when he joined the Marine Corps. He was given a medical discharge in '41 but thereupon served with the Merchant Marine until 1945, meanwhile fishing a bit all over the world.

After War II, Wheeler tried bus driving in Los Angeles, but wound up fishing and manufacturing tackle in Oregon in '49. Florida haunted him, tho, and he returned to Miami in 1954, here for charter fishing. His jaunts took him to the Florida Keys, the Bahamas.

The skipper worked the Christopher Charter Service the past four years and as a sideline helped lay out and supervise Persian cat breeding. He has trophies for fishing and for sportsmanship from tournaments in Miami and the Bahamas.

Wheeler's wife has two major hobbies — fishing and raising purebred Persian cats. She's won ribbons already with her felines, although she only started to "show" them about a year ago.

FRESH WATER "SALT" — That's Captain Laurence A. Wheeler of Pompano Beach, who has been hired by Jaycees to become first dockmaster at Pahokee Harbor. He's fished all over the world, but he's also adept at bagging Black Bass, as this photo shows. He'll be on the job in Pahokee within a fortnight.

MANY ATTEND PTA COUNCIL

BELLE GLADE — The Palm Beach County Council of the PTA held its 12th meeting of the season at the Belle Glade Woman's Club on Tuesday morning, followed by a luncheon.

At the PTA Present were 71 members, representing 31 of the 38 associations in the county.

The council unit cooperation with the county school board in supporting the school bond issue to come before the voters was noted. It was voted to sponsor teaching scholarship through the county council. This is a continuation of the state PTA scholarship program which provides help for young people to be trained as teachers for the public schools of Florida.

County officer and committee reports were heard and it was learned that although the membership drive is not yet over, there are some 7000 PTA members in the county at this time.

The group was presided over by Mrs. F. C. Dooley, president of the local PTA. Mrs. P. T. Wells of West Palm Beach, county council president, presided over the session. Devotions were given by the Rev. U. W. Malcolm.

Attending from Belle Glade were Mrs. Dooley, Mrs. F. C. White, who is the recording secretary, Mrs. James A. Ball Jr., Mrs. W. B. Matthews, Mrs. Hubert Tillery, Mrs. Richard Poston and Mrs. Vernie Boes.

Also attending the affair were Roy Vandegrift, Jr., and Mrs. Elsworth Keen of Pahokee, and Mrs. L. C. Livingston, Mrs. W. N. Neal and Mrs. J. E. Williams of Canal Point.

PAST MASTERS HONORED BY MASONS IN PAHOKEE

Past Masters Night was observed by the Everglades Lodge F&M #21 Tuesday night at the Masonic Hall in Pahokee with Past Master J. E. Rodgers conducting the new ceremony.

The principal speaker was Wm. Horjes of Lake Worth. A magician's exhibition was a feature of the evening. The program was presented by John Kloock, Lake Worth.

There were approximately 65 attending including guests from Okeechobee, Belle Glade and Lake Worth. O. H. Sheppard headed the refreshment committee.

ROTARY GOV. TO VISIT

PAHOKEE — Willis H. Hitt, of West Palm Beach, district governor of Rotary International, will be guest speaker at Pahokee Rotary next Thursday in his annual official visit to the club. President Vance Denton announced yesterday.

PAHOKEE — First donor of new books for the new Pahokee Library in the new Civic Center is Congressman Paul Rogers.

The library won't open for some time until bookshelves and equipment are installed — but the Congressman's contribution will be hard to top.

The eight cartons of books Rogers sent total about 100 volumes, many of them tomes on agricultural topics and printed under the auspices of the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

There is little doubt that already-maturing produce in some Glades locales has been hurt, quality-wise, but most growers believe production remains and corn will not be "off" more than 20 or 25 percent.

Some produce was moved out of the Glades this week, but most shippers expect their first volume shipments to begin next week.

Here are opinions of some, as to the crop outlook:

Imman News, South Bay Growers, shipping point, believe we realized much loss in our area, but another warm day or two will help a lot. We hope to ship beans next week. Our corn is still three or four weeks off, as is our celery.

Mrs. A. W. Farrow, Vann's, Inland, says that the quantity of first-corn beans and corn in the Canal Point-Pahokee area may be down by about 20 percent. We'll know better next week when we start bean shipments.

McCabe, Pioneer Growers Co-op, Pahokee: "We'll be able to tell more about the picture next week. We expect to have beans in the market next week when we start bean shipments."

Jess Elliott, Everglades Growers Co-op, Pahokee: "Certainly there has been heavy rain, done any good and have tended to slow things up. However, we ship first corn today by truck to northern markets. From Vandegrift-Williams, Celery looks good — we'll be shipping it more than a week from now."

W. R. Wilson, Belle Glade: "We had some damage from earlier rain, but none from the weekend rain. It has been slow, corn last week, will start pushing radishes and beans next week."

Ed Thomas, Lake Okeechobee Farmers Co-op, Canal Point: "Things look better than they did last week. It has been slow, but we will ship beans from Joe Hatton today and expect more carloads to go out tomorrow and Sunday."

George Wedgworth, Wedgworth's, Inc., Belle Glade: "We've had very little damage from the rain in our port area, I believe. We'll start shipping beans the latter part of the month, and corn crops will be ready to ship by the end of the month."

John Dular, Harold Robin Growers Co-op, Belle Glade: "Production of crops up to us next week or so will show some damage due to excessive rains. But continued good weather will bring out the best of the crop. We shipped 15 carloads of corn this week, which was, in fact, a record for this area."

CANAL POINT LIONS TO HAVE BANQUET

CANAL POINT — The Canal Point Lions Club will have a banquet, Monday night at 7:30, at the Canal Point Community Hall, honoring the Lions ladies and the Canal Point teachers.

Lions' district governor Scott Kison of Ft. Lauderdale, and deputy district governor Buddy Schoenfeld of Belle Glade are expected to attend.

PAHOKEE — M. P. Stanley unveils the 1957 Chevrolet at his auto emporium today, and he expects a lot of growups in the latest in vehicular styles — and to tote home free gifts he's giving to men, women and children.

Excitement is due for the kiddies, too, he says, as their parents can register today and tomorrow for the free drawing for a spanking new Corvette kiddy-car, a sleek model in gleaming white, four feet long, two feet wide and a foot and a half tall.

Experts Believe Glades Crop Outlook Is Good

Respite from near-dreadful rainfall plus an abundance of dry, hot sunshine have let a bit of optimism creep into the dreams and hopes of Glades vegetable growers and shippers, an OBSERVER survey reveals.

Where the outlook was decidedly gloomy as late as Monday and Tuesday, the general feeling now is that the Glades will fare relatively well with initial crops.

There is little doubt that already-maturing produce in some Glades locales has been hurt, quality-wise, but most growers believe production remains and corn will not be "off" more than 20 or 25 percent.

SUNSHINE POLITICS: Watch out when Democrats get mad. That's when they win elections. And they are mad in Florida. They seem to be at their best after they have taken a beating and are better "needed" about it by the Republicans. And the Republicans have rubbed the Florida Democrats the wrong way.

We are just back from a flying trip to Florida where we took a quick look at the political pot as it is boiling in the South. As we did during the recent elections in Georgia, we traveled around a bit, talked to a lot of people — and listened to political speeches.

We can't say for sure how Florida will go in November, but we did come out with a conviction. Florida Democrats are fighting mad, mad enough to go to work, mad enough to do something about losing their state to the Republicans four years ago.

We saw how determined they are when we ate a free meal at a Democratic dinner in Lakeland last week. The Speaker of the House, Sam Rayburn, was the principal speaker. About dozens of local elected officials and party leaders were on hand.

This crowd put on a full show for their visitor from Texas. Mr. Rayburn was given the key to the city by the mayor. Then former Congressman J. Hardin Pelterson presented him with a box of fishing tackle, which Congressman Syd Helton invited him to use the next day. Everybody praised everybody else. Florida political hatchets were buried (or at least kept out of sight) because "company" had come.

One speaker used 20 minutes to thank the folks who helped put on the dinner. He finished on a high note by thanking the man who hauled the organ to

Scientists Make Grass Silage While Sun Shines

Can Glades cattlemen disregard the annually-recurrent winter frost scares and profitably feed "sauerkraut" to their herds when pastures aren't available for grazing?

Scientists at Everglades Experiment Station in Belle Glade believe cattlemen need have little fear of loss of pasture from frost, if they ensure themselves of a supplemental feed supply of "sauerkraut," their term for ensilage made of excess summer production of relatively inexpensive grasses.

Glass silage itself is not a completely unknown thing among Glades cattlemen. Some have tried it, perhaps only once, but few have experienced with it long enough to give ensilage a permanent role in their year-round feeding program.

Experiment Station scientists, under a cooperative project headed by Dr. Robert J. Allen, Jr., agronomist, Dalton S. Harrison, agricultural engineer, and Ralph W. Kidder, animal husbandman, have put up a total of 900 tons of grass silage since July, and it will be used in the station's cattle feeding program.

Most of it was put up in bunker-type self-feeding stacks in six separate fields for winter maintenance of breeding herds. The remainder has been put in two upright silos at station barns for use in dry-lot steer feeding trials.

"A high majority of Glades cattlemen are missing a bet by not using their excess grass for ensilage," Allen says. "and having silage available is an insurance factor against such serious pasture damage as we had last winter."

Station farmers used a forage harvester on St. Augustine, Para, and Pangola grasses. Pulled by a two-plow tractor, the harvester sliced chopped grass into wafers. Attachments were added to the harvester so grass was automatically impregnated with either molasses or sodium bisulfite as it left the blower.

Molasses should be used, say the scientists, thus, "one pound per ton of material of about 65 percent moisture and relatively low protein, up to 100 pounds per ton of high moisture (80 percent), high protein."

From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh

Barnyard "WHOodoni"

The Barn Owl Controversy still rages in our town. One group claims owls should be protected because they eat vermin. The other faction holds that these little howlers also eat chickens ... and should be shot.

Now Pops Parker claims both parties are right. All owls clean out vermin. Some owls also clean out an occasional hen yard.

The way to spot a bad owl, according to Pops, is to put up a 10-foot pole in the chicken run with a No. 2 trap on it. A mauling bird generally perches to look over the situation before he strikes, giving you your evidence, and the culprit!

From where I sit, I doubt if this will end the owl argument. People have different opinions on the subject — just as they have different opinions about whether beer, tea or what-have-you makes the best thirst quencher. Examine the facts and make up your own mind, I say ... and be thankful we live where that's possible.

can feed about 50 cows from either end of the bunker. Once the stack is opened, cows must eat from three to six inches into it daily to prevent silage molding.

Admittedly, the cost of equipment is a stumbling block to ready use of silage by Glades cattlemen, the Station experts say. Over a period of years, the equipment overhead factor is reduced.

Operating costs for harvesting the grass silage are not excessive. At the Station, they've put up the silage at an average cost of $1.84 per ton, using a three-man crew to put up from 40 to 50 tons per day.

How long will grass silage keep without spoiling? At least two or three years if properly preserved, says Dr. Allen, who notes that similar silage stacks in Texas have been found to be good after a 10-year span.

Pineapple Glamorizes Ham Loaf

Excellent company fare, but don't wait for guests.

Meat loaf is a year-round favorite that provides almost unending variety in flavors... the more recipes you have the better. Here's a dressed-up version, fine for guest dinner or buffet supper. The stuffing of canned pineapple tidbits and sweet potatoes lends a delicious flavor and keeps the loaf moist in the baking. Round out the menu with a molded salad and a favorite dessert.

STUFFED HAM LOAF
 ½ pound ground ham ½ teaspoon salt
 ½ pound ground beef 2 tablespoons brown sugar
 ½ cup fine dry bread crumbs Dash allspice, cinnamon
 ½ cup milk 1½ cups drained pineapple tidbits
 1 cup mashed sweet potatoes
 Mix ham, beef, crumbs, milk, egg and salt. Spread on waxed paper in oblong about 6 x 10-inches. Stir brown sugar, spices and ¼ cup only pineapple into sweet potatoes. Spread over meat and roll carefully like a jelly roll. Lift by waxed paper into shallow pan. Bake in moderate oven (350° F.) 1 to 1½ hours. Decorate loaf with remaining ¾-cup pineapple as shown. Sprinkle fruit lightly with brown sugar and run under broiler a few minutes to glaze. Serves 5 to 6.
 Buffet Party Loaf: Double these amounts to serve 10 or 12 and cook about ½ hour longer.

COMPLETE HOSPITAL designed by the Federal Civil Defense Administration to supplement existing hospitals in case of attack is shown in the display above, minus only its generators and most of its 200 beds. The hospital would occupy about 15,000 square feet for ideal operation, but in the more crowded display above, the following major segments may be seen: (1) Admitting center, where patients are assigned to various parts of the hospital for treatment. (2) Portable X-ray, with its own generator and special process for film development. (3) Simulated ward, which would be much larger and accommodate 200 patients at a time in actual practice. (4) Operating room, complete with lights powered by a generator. (5) Laboratory for blood typing and other elementary medical tasks. (6) Pharmacy and supply section. (7) Sterilizing room, including autoclaves operating on liquid fuel. (FCD Photo)

SUPPLY AREA of a Federal Civil Defense Administration emergency hospital is shown set up in a school or gymnasium which, like churches and auditoriums, would have the 15,000 square feet of floor space needed for the hospital. Hospital requires staff of 200, including 16 medical officers, 33 nurses, 173 trained aides, and assorted technicians and workers. (Providence, R. I., Journal-Bulletin Photo)

PROMPT DIAGNOSIS and assignment for treatment of large numbers of attack casualties would be the function of the "triage," or admitting room in a Federal Civil Defense Administration 200-bed emergency hospital. Because first aid training programs have been expanded, it is expected that most victims—like this simulated casualty—would have received some first aid before they reached the hospital for actual professional treatment. (FCD Photo)

SURGERY can be carried on in comparatively primitive surroundings by using the facilities of the Federal Civil Defense Administration's emergency hospital during attacks. The operating lights would be powered by the hospital's own 15-kilowatt generator, while the instruments would be sterilized in bottle-heated autoclaves, or pressure cookers. (FCD Photo)

Stockpile of Mercy

LABORERS MOVE equipment from a Federal Civil Defense Administration emergency hospital into a school, similar to other preselected sites which would be utilized in outlying areas after an attack had blasted major target cities. The self-contained hospital can be unloaded from trucks and be in operation in five hours. These units are strategically stockpiled near most of the nation's critical target areas. (Providence, R. I., Journal-Bulletin Photo)

EMERGENCY HOSPITAL 15-kilowatt generator for operating room lights and power equipment is loaded at a Federal Civil Defense Administration warehouse onto two trucks. In attack situations, an entire self-sufficient 154-ton hospital of 250 beds in 450 containers could be moved by a single large truck to a school, church or other suitable building which was reasonably undamaged. Store Emergency FCD Hospitals

Packed away without fanfare in strategically placed warehouses around the nation is the Federal Civil Defense Administration's mercy stockpile, which some day may spell life or death for millions of people.

It consists of 200 of FCD's self-contained emergency hospitals in the federal stockpile, plus 78 others owned by the States. FCD has ordered an additional 721 hospitals, and the States six.

Set up in outlying schools, churches and other buildings, the hospitals would provide working facilities for doctors and nurses evacuated from the 1,800 regular hospitals in critical target areas.

The $22,500 emergency hospital, complete with X-ray and operating room equipment, 2 generators, 200 cots and supplies, can be loaded in two large vans, and be in use 5 hours after arrival.

SURGERY can be carried on in comparatively primitive surroundings by using the facilities of the Federal Civil Defense Administration's emergency hospital during attacks. The operating lights would be powered by the hospital's own 15-kilowatt generator, while the instruments would be sterilized in bottle-heated autoclaves, or pressure cookers. (FCD Photo)

IT'S UP TO YOU

A family founded without God has little hope of success. Marriages not made in heaven are likely to make hell. With notable exceptions, marriages not made in heaven are not made at all, and soon break up or prove unsatisfactory. The best guarantee of a happy marriage is to have Christian parents, to be raised in a Christian home, for the whole family to be active in the church and well acquainted with the Bible. One needs also the confidence of his minister as he seeks to follow God's guidance in selection of a life partner.

The human family at its best is the masterpiece of God's creation. Founded upon respect, honor and love between a man and a woman, it becomes the matrix for perpetuating and improving the human race. It nurtures the noblest qualities of tenderness, sharing, helpfulness and cooperation. It provides security, a sense of significance and a place for service for all its members. Mistakes and failures are not considered as sins or violations of law, bringing punishment, but one can be sure of kindness and forgiveness—sure of his place in the circle. He contributes gladly and shares fully in available goods, pleasures and satisfactions. He strives to achieve these, not for himself alone, but for the family. Here in microcosm sustained by the powerful ties of blood are the building blocks of which God's world eventually will be made.

The little world of the child in a Christian home provides peace, comfort, safety and security. Hunger is satisfied; sorrow assuaged. Bumps, bruises and disappointments are quickly cured by those whom the little ones love and trust. Their every need and longing is promptly met. Well adjusted personalities emerge from this matrix as citizens who can carry life's responsibilities with integrity and poise.

The family web is strong, firmly knit together as an ongoing eternal institution. Gathered in the circle of common worship, the family reaches its highest perfection and exudes the very perfume of God. It is God's crowning achievement and cradles the hope that men may finally learn to love one another and live peacefully and prosperously together in a world where poverty, strife, evil and war have been finally conquered by goodness, kindness, generosity and love.

planting, which will afford adequate facilities for buyers and vegetable inspectors.

B. A. Roemer is doing the construction work under the supervision of H. B. Bivens and Doyle Thompson of C & A Enterprises.

Mr. Turner states that the vacuum cooler will be operated by local personnel who will be properly trained by representatives of the parent firms of the new corporation, which are the City Products Corp. of Chicago, and the C & A Enterprises of Salinas, Calif.

The new plant will be equipped to vacuum-cool celery, sweet corn, and leafy vegetables — tomato, escarole, lettuce and cabbage.

Turner said that officials of the firm anticipate being able to cool all of the approximately 22 varieties of vegetables grown in the fertile Lake Okechobee area when further research in this field makes it feasible.

Vacuum cooling is a relatively new method of refrigeration. Its advocates claim it gives a greater quality control and extended shelf life to vegetables. It also enables the shipper to use the present type of wood containers and corrugated paper containers which are much in demand by the consumer market.

PAHOKEE HOST TO LAKE WORTH, FT. PIERCE AT BG TONIGHT

Glades football fans have action aplenty awaiting them tonight on their home football fields, as Pahokee entertains Lake Worth and Belle Glade is host to Dan McCarty high school of Ft. Pierce.

Much is at stake in both Suncoast Conference games, too. The Blue Devils beat Seacrest of Delray-Boynton, 23-6, for their lone victory in four starts.

Belle Glade, tied with Clewiston and Ft. Pierce for the No. 2 spot in the conference, must beat the McCarty-ites to remain in contention for the loop crown.

Lake Worth is winless in four encounters, but Blue Devil Coach Web Pell has a high regard for the Trojan squad which he saw win a "moral victory" last week in losing to mighty Palm Beach by a scant, two-touchdown margin.

"Lake Worth has a solid ball club," Pell admits. "They've improved with each game and are to be feared."

But, Pahokee has improved, too, and well may be a factor in determining the ultimate Suncoast champion. Pell's offense showed signs of "jelling" last week, with points being scored with an unbalanced T, a single wing, a straight T, and a field goal by Weldon Cardin. Touchdowns were scored by Richard ore more than a little to wrestle with, but All-Conference guard Ken Morris must have more help from the injured Tackle John Prevatt and other linemen if the Rams are to stay in the conference race.

That the Ram eleven has intestinal fortitude in considerable quantity was proved last week as Belle Glade withstood repeated Clewiston onslaughts.

MOBILE TELEPHONE USE ON INCREASE IN AREA

All sorts of people use mobile radio-telephone service in West Palm Beach and the Glades according to Ed Reddy, District Manager for Southern Bell Telephone Company. Principal users are salesmen, busy executives, repair crews, construction crews and service companies.

Since mobile telephone service first became available to Belle Glade in 1955 it has grown steadily, Reddy said. There are now more than 75 users in the county placing calls every day from their offices-on-wheels.

A mobile telephone user can travel from Jacksonville to Miami and still remain in touch with home, office and clients almost all the way, Reddy said. There are radio-telephone installations at Ft. Lauderdale, West Palm Beach, Fort Pierce, Orlando and Jacksonville.

Normal range is about twenty airline miles but some atmospheric conditions permit transmission and reception at even greater distances.
